Mascot (new in April!): Saammy the Aardvark Archivist

We'd first like to echo Missouri Humanities' acknowledgment of Indigenous Peoples' Day.

Summary of Activities (by academic semester):

SPRING 2025:

Director of Mizzou's Budds Center for American Music Studies Dr. Megan Murph was featured in the Wed. Jan. 22 edition of Show Me Mizzou.

MU Special Collections Librarian John Henry Adams offered a course with MU Extension's Osher Lifelong Learning Institute on February 3 & 10: "From Currency to Wrapping Paper: The History of Decorated Papers."

Shortly after our election, Kat scheduled the new officers' meeting on Mon., March 10 at 6:15 p.m. via Zoom, welcoming and transferring information between returning and new members, and selecting a Mascot (below).

On March 24, we shared the next issue of our newsletter, inviting Mizzou colleagues to partake in our events.

Finally, talk of a potential mascot was floated, the aardvark was chosen as it seems to be an animal no one really knows much about, similar to how people aren't really sure what archivists do. The mascot is yet to be named but we're looking for a name starting with S, to give the initials SAA (S___ the Aardvark Archivist)

(placeholder Aardvark image)

S. the Aardvark Archivist! Help us name them!

SAAMUSC hosted a Speakeasy on Tue., March 11 at 5:15 p.m. Dr. Buchanan welcomed author and MU English faculty member A. Kendra Greene for a discussion about Icelandic collections and analyzing visitor response texts as well as a celebration of her new book No Less Strange or Wonderful (below).

The KOPN Community Radio collection was again featured in March by AAPB for Women's History Month. Amidst massive cuts to IMLS activities and staff, Dr. Buchanan investigated veterans' provenance perspectives with support in March from MU Research Council.

Officers' second meeting was held via Zoom on Mon., Apr. 14 at 6 p.m. and topics included good news, brainstorming events, and SAAMUSC's Mascot Name:

And most importantly...
Results are in and our Aardvarchivist mascot has been named Sammy! (or Saammy?)

SAAMUSC President Kat welcomed for our Speakeasy on Mon., Apr. 21 at 5:30 p.m., Amelia Verkerk, Virginia Tech University Archivist (below).

Liz Bloodworth MLIS'24, University Archivist & Special Collections Librarian at Illinois Wesleyan University, presented at the SAA Description Section panel AI & Archival Description about "Accessible AI in the Archives: Using ChatGPT for Archival Description" on Apr. 14.

Mizzou Libraries welcomed Dr. Marian Toledo Candelaria to campus in May (at right), and SHSMO welcomed Executive Director Dr. Joel Rhodes.

The Pictures of the Year (POY) collaboration by MU professors Lynden Steele and Kristin Schwain was featured in the Thu. May 8 edition of Show Me Mizzou.

In the summer Dr. Buchanan began collaborating with Dr. Ron Turner in organizing the UM South African Educational Program (UMSAEP) archival collection, along with SISLT PhD Student Xuhan Zhang and colleagues in the University Archives and Mizzou Libraries.

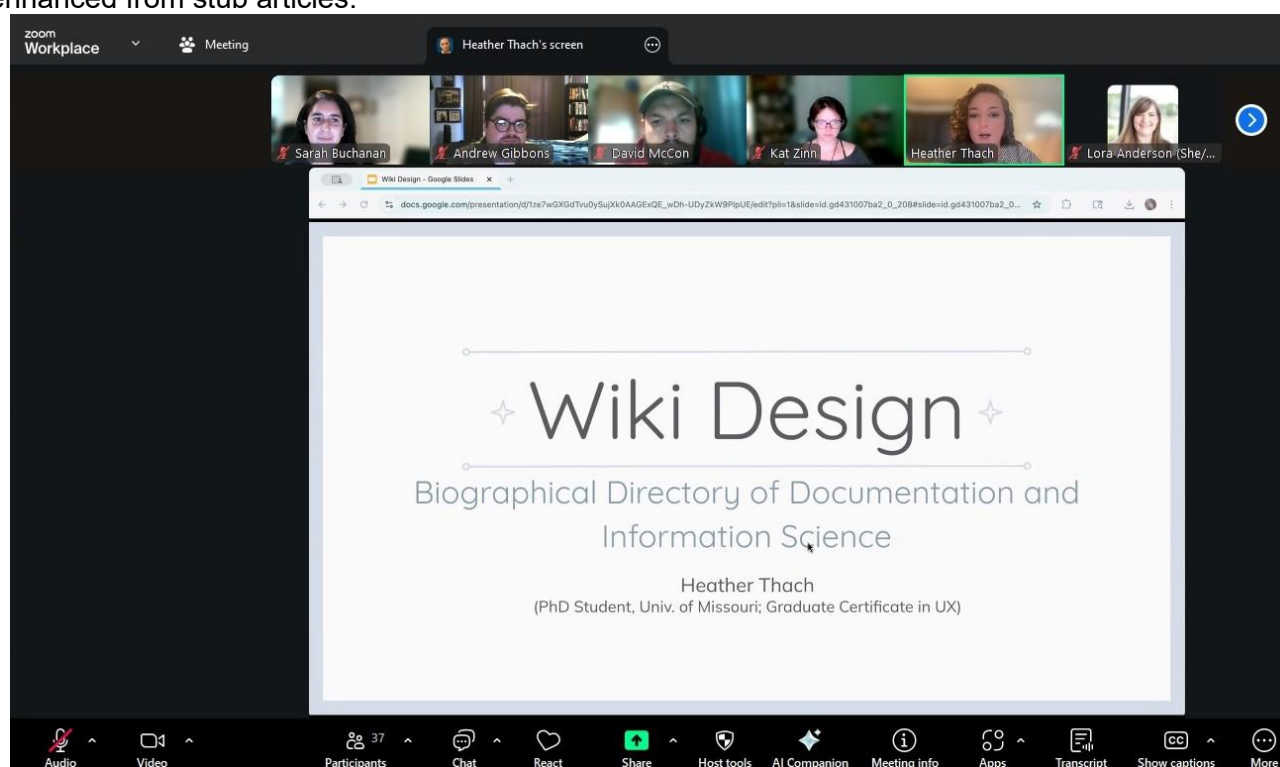

FALL 2025:

Our own Dahlia Bray collaborated with Archival Studies classmate Jingzhou Zhang who engaged in cataloging the MU Geography cartographic map collection, supervised on-site by MU Geography faculty Dr. Aida Guhlincozzi and Dr. Soren Larsen.

MU Law Library Director Cindy Bassett, JD and MLIS'01, was featured in the Tue. Aug 5 edition of Show Me Mizzou.

The Law Library, Geological Sciences Library, and three other campus libraries were featured in the Tue. Apr. 8 edition of Show Me Mizzou.

In the fall Data & Records Management course, Dr. Buchanan hosted guest speaker Heather Thach, SISLT PhD Student and GRA, on Sept. 8 for her presentation on the ASIS&T Wiki. In coordination with Wiki Editors Dr. Michael Buckland and ASIS&T SIG HFIS Chair-Elect Dr. Jenny Bossaller, students enhanced Wikipedia's information science coverage by creating 20 entries and editing 59 articles, and on the ASIS&T Wiki entries for 31 information scientists were created and enhanced from stub articles.

LISGSA elected new officers in September! Welcome President Ben Imhoff, Vice President Sam Chartrand, and Secretary and Treasurer Heidi Jesse.

Thank you as well to two MLIS students for serving as MU Graduate Professional Council (GPC) Representatives: Laura Hess and Kelsey Meline, and to SISLT PhD Student Amanda Shelton serving as SISLT Representative to the CEHD Graduate Student Advisory Council.

SAAMUSC hosted a Speakeasy on Tue., Sept. 2 at 6 p.m. Kat welcomed past president Isaac Alexander, librarian at the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, who discussed his recent National Council for Preservation Education internship at Yellowstone National Park (below).

Officers' third meeting was held via Zoom on Wed., Sept. 3 at 7:30 p.m., and fourth meeting was held via Zoom on Fri., Oct. 17 at 6 p.m. with topics including events in planning (flyer below at right).

SAAMUSC Officer Amanda May presented "Taking A Paws'-- Kitten Cuddle Puddle with Barnie's Place Feline Rescue" at Amigos 2025: Libraries Cultivating Community on Sept. 10 (below).

Taking A "Paws"-- Kitten Cuddle Puddle with Barnie's Place Feline Rescue

11:15 am CDT - 12:00 pm CDT

With over 3,400 students, the University of Missouri College of Engineering is a high-pressure academic environment. To support student well-being, the Engineering Library and Technology Commons (ELTC)—a key resource hub—hosts the Kitten Cuddle Puddle, a Finals Week event in partnership with Barnie's Place Feline Rescue. Students interact with adoptable cats in a calming space designed to reduce stress and encourage self-care.

This event is one of several ELTC outreach efforts, including the Shamrock Tea, New Student BBQ, and library programming such as book bedazzling and paper crafts, all aimed at building community and supporting student success. The presentation will cover the evolution of these initiatives, lessons learned, and considerations for forming meaningful partnerships. Attendees will also enjoy photos and stories from past events that highlight the impact of wellness-focused programming.

The David Bowie Archive Project, Victoria & Albert Museum

David Bowie’s personal archive was acquired by the V&A in February 2024 and opened to the public in September 2025. A collection of some 90,000 items spanning Bowie’s lifetime, it was condition assessed and catalogued by a cross-disciplinary project team of cataloguers, conservators, and photographers, and is now housed in the David Bowie Centre at V&A East Storehouse.

Given by the Project Archivist for the book, paper and photography element of the collection, this talk will explore how this element of the archive was assembled when in David Bowie’s custody, and trace what input Bowie had in the archive’s curation.

Please register at: <https://forms.gle/KLe27NSSaeKIC4TD8>
 You will receive the link 48 hours before the event.

MARCH SPEAKEASY:

A. Kendra Greene

Essayist, Book artist, Museum Scholar and English Professor at MU

On March 11th Professor Greene gave a moving talk on her experiences working with museums to help turn the interactive exhibits into a dialogue between a museum and it's patrons. For example, compiling pages of wisdom from women sourced from patrons into small books of related pages added back to the exhibit. This helped show that the museum wasn't just asking for participation for it's own sake but was actually listening.

ADMIRABLE ARCHIVING

A Reunion Across Time

Alex Gambacorta spent a summer teaching on an Apsáalooke reservation. Years later and miles away, in a class visit to Marquette's Raynor library, she recognized the surnames of her students on a letter from the universities archives.

Through collaboration between the archives and the tribe family members were able to see pictures they didn't know existed and read letters written decades ago.

ARCHIVES IN THE NEWS

The Internet Archive Persists

As the Trump Administration targets the National Archives and IMLS the Internet Archive is more important than ever.

As government agencies are being gutted scientists, like Harvard's Nancy Krieger, are collaborating with the Internet Archive to help preserve important federal data that has been disappearing from government web pages. Topics from climate change, to gender identity and sexual orientation, and even the events of the January 6th insurrection are being scrubbed from these pages and in some cases only preserved via the Internet Archive.

As it's importance grows the archive is not as stable as we might hope. The institution has been the object of multiple lawsuits and cyber-attacks and is funded primarily by donations and contributions from Museums and Libraries who pay to have their collections preserved here.

SEPTEMBER'S SPEAKEASY

Isaac Alexander

2023 SAAMUSC President, Career, Business & Nonprofit Librarian @ the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh

Isaac Alexander, 2023 SAAMUSC President and current librarian at the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, came to talk to us about his NCPE internship at Yellowstone National Park's Heritage and Research Center as a Microfiche Inventory Assistant. During the internship, Isaac worked on digitizing Yellowstone's archival materials, including image preservation and the Monthly Superintendent Reports, which document park history from 1917-1967. He also contributed to revising the library's Collection Development Policy, identifying subject gaps, and improving access to culturally sensitive materials. His work was a part of ongoing efforts to preserve and make Yellowstone's rich historical and cultural collections more accessible to researchers and the public.

The Internet Archive Reaches a Settlement with Music Publishers

The Internet Archive's Great 78 Project, an undertaking to digitize older music recordings done on shellac, made them the target of litigation from major music publishers in 2023. Two years later, after being sued for 400 million in losses the archive and music publishers have reached a private settlement.

This loss follows a failed appeal to a similar lawsuit levied against them by book publishers. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the second circuit upheld their decision in favor of the plaintiffs in September of last year.

A PERSONAL ARCHIVE

James R. Stewart Jr.
North Carolina A&T State University

In the most recent issue of Archival Outlook, James R. Stewart Jr gives us a look into independent archiving. Stewart has personally undertaken the task of creating an archive of children's media.

Many notable creators have given papers to museums or researchers for digitization but other creators who were hugely influential in their own time had no established collections. Seeing this gap, Stewart took it upon himself to create artificial collections for creators like Dr. Mary Alice Jones and Irene Wicker. Stewart collected historical and personal materials related to them, purchasing items with his own funds. The cost of creating this archive was relatively low but the outcome is a collection of media that would otherwise be scattered and potentially lost to time. Is there a niche topic you're passionate about? Why not create an archival collection on your own!

Transforming Black Press Archives with AI

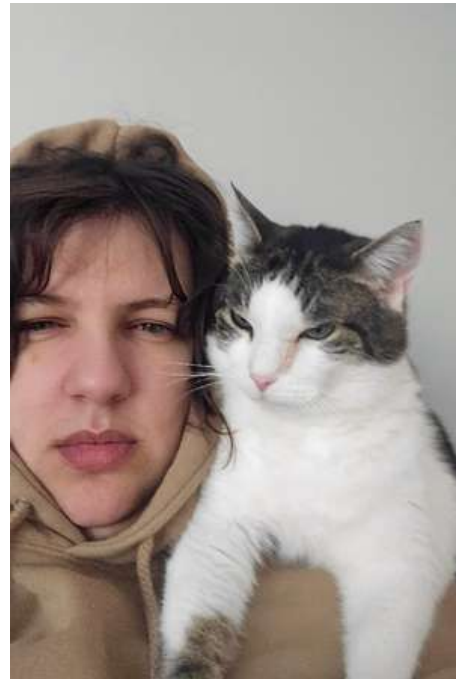

A national research team led by UC Santa Barbara English assistant professor Jim Casey has received a $750,000 grant from Schmidt Sciences to use artificial intelligence to recover and share 19th-century African American newspaper archives that are currently scattered and hard to access. The interdisciplinary project will bring together experts from multiple universities and the Adler Planetarium to build AI tools tailored to these historical documents, emphasizing community involvement and historical justice rather than biased commercial systems. The effort aims to make early Black press materials freely accessible to the public and will include crowdsourced transcription to improve accuracy and cultural relevance.
